COUNCIL TO MAKE BIG BOND ISSUE

Fifteen Thousand Dollar Bond Issue
Provided in Ordinance which Gets First Passage. Hitching
Post Question Settled.

An ordinance providing for a bond issue of $15,000 was given preliminary passage in the town council on Tuesday evening and, after the necessary advertisement, will come up for final approval and the signature of the burgess. The purpose of the bond issue is to fund the floating indebtedness of about $10,000 and to provide a fund of $5,000 for permanent improvements to the town streets.

Borough Solicitor Wible reported to council that it had power to issue bonds to the amount of $18,550.50 without putting it to the vote of the people. There are at present outstanding $11,000.00 in bonds unauthorized by popular vote.

The proposed issue will be in thirty bonds of $500 each, to bear interest at four per cent, payable semi-annually. One bond will mature each year, beginning with October 1, 1912. The interest will be payable April 1 and October 1 of each year.

To meet the interest on the bonds, and for the redemption of them as they come due, a special tax of $1200 will be levied for 1913; of $1180 for 1914; $1160 for 1915 and so on, diminishing by $20 each year until the entire issue is redeemed.

It was pointed out very clearly by members of council that the portion to be used for the improvement of town streets must be for their permanent improvement and not for temporary repairs. By issuing the bonds to fund the floating indebtedness the borough saves one per cent annually on the sum to be expended if the floating debt were to be carried along at the present five per cent rate of interest.

HITCHING POST MATTER

The hitching post question was finally decided at Tuesday evening's meeting when council agreed to allow four posts instead of six at the Weaver corner, and three each at the G. W. Spangler and Dougherty and Bartley corners. The posts at either end of the line at the Weaver store are to be removed. Permission is granted in all three cases provided the firms named desire the posts and also provided the three firms named agree to keep the roadway clean about the posts.

The use of the engine house parlor by the state meeting of the Mothers' Congress was granted. The condition of the engine house roof was referred to the property committee.

There were not sufficient members present to pass the Water street extension ordinance and it was held over until the next meeting.

INCREASE WAGES

Owing to the great demand for laborers and the high prices being paid by other concerns the highway committee reported that Street Commissioner Newman was having trouble securing hands, that he now has only two regular men and these threaten to leave because they can get more money elsewhere. Council decided to increase the pay of laborers from 15 to 17 1/2 cents per hour, the new rate to go into effect now and to remain in effect until the first meeting in December.

In the matter of the extension of Fourth street the borough solicitor was instructed to proceed so that benefits as well as damages may be assessed.

A request from William D. Gilbert for a fire plug on West Middle street extended was granted and the matter referred to the property committee to locate said plug.

Permission was granted W. Lavere Hafer to make pavement on Carlisle street from the curb line to the line of trees standing on or near the building line.

There was further talk of violations of the sewer ordinance by those who allow their rainspouts to empty into the mains. It was agreed that prosecution seemed to be the best way to stop the practice.

The following members of council were present, Messrs. Trebble, Butt, Shearer, Armor, Keith and Codori. Council adjourned to Tuesday, November 5.

WILL FLY HERE ON SATURDAY

Fred G. Eells, Successful Aviator, here with Aeroplane, in which he will fly on Saturday. First over Battlefield.

Frederick Eells, of Rochester, well known as a successful aviator, arrived in Gettysburg on Tuesday with his Rambler aeroplane and expects to make several flights here during his stay in town. They will likely occur on Saturday. Mr. Eells has set up his machine on the old fair grounds and may make an exhibition flight before his announced flying occurs.

Mr. Eells is accompanied by Harry E. VanNess, the manufacturer of the aeroplane.

Mr. VanNess makes machines with considerable success and some enjoyable flying is promised before the two visitors leave town. They are now stopping at the City Hotel.

In explanation of their visit here Mr. Eells says that he was at the Bedford County fair making flights last week and that traveling to his next stand brought him through Gettysburg. He had always entertained a desire to see the battlefield and as he was taking his aeroplane along with him, he thought it just as well to stop here with it and establish a record of being the first bird-man to fly over the battlefield.

Mr. Eells had heard of Aviator McCalley's misfortunes while here and expects to have no similar experiences.

ARENDTSTVILLE

Arendtville, Oct. 9.—Rally Day, held in the Reformed Sunday School in this place last Sunday, was largely attended and the program was well rendered.

Aaron I. Weidner, of this place, lost a valuable Jersey cow. She found her way to a full chop chest and ate too much.

The corn crop in this section is good but some of the late planted is quite green yet. Apple picking is now in full swing. The crop is not as large as last season but the fruit is large and perfect owing to plenty of rain during August and September.

Chestnuts and shellbarks will only be a half crop in this section.

Ellis N. Kramer, Jr., of Harrisburg, is spending a few days in the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Culp in this place.

PURE FOOD VIOLATION

Information has been laid against N. L. Minter for selling catsup containing saccharine instead of sugar, a violation of the pure food laws. The information was laid by C. C. Linton representing the State Dairy and Food Commission. It is alleged that the catsup was the product of the Getz company in York. A hearing will be held at two o'clock Friday afternoon before Squire Harnish.

FARMERS' DAY FOR GETTYSBURG

Project Launched in Gettysburg to Hold One Day Fair Similar to that Conducted in Waynesboro
Last Week.

Following the enormous success of Waynesboro's farmers' day or Saturday, when about 5000 people flocked to the Franklin County town, local business men have taken up the plan of holding a similar one-day fair in Gettysburg. The date has not been definitely set but will probably be Saturday, October 26. A meeting is to be held in the next few days in the Court House when all the details will be arranged.

The plan followed at Waynesboro will likely be adopted here. The various business places of the town offer prizes for whatever article they want and the contestants then place their exhibits at that particular thing in the places of business. In this way the fair is scattered all over the business section of town and the people go from one store to another inspecting the things and having a good time.

Local merchants have taken to the plan enthusiastically and a preliminary canvass to see whether a number of prizes could be secured met with uniform success. Everybody is anxious to get in on the affair and to help make it a success and some of the business houses are offering several prizes each. The objects for which the prizes are to be given will be published in a day or two. A number of handsome premiums have already been listed.

A Waynesboro merchant in discussing the results of farmers' day in his town said:

"I have never had such profitable advertising as I obtained through farmers day. Hundreds of people visited my store and I have, as a result of it, four hundred prospective purchasers of my goods."

"The people from all around came here and got acquainted with my store as they would have done under no other circumstances."

"What was true of my store, I am sure was true of all other merchants who took advantage of the advertisement."

SIGNED BY CONNIE MACK

Elmer Lawrence, of Mt. Rock, a promising young baseball pitcher for several years, has been signed by Manager Connie Mack, of the Philadelphia Athletics, and will be given a tryout next spring. He was with the strong Sellersville team during the season last, closed, and besides pitching winning ball, was hitting above the .300 mark. His many friends in this section will be glad to hear of his advance, and hope that he will "make good."

Mr. Lawrence was formerly pitcher of the Hanover team pitching winning ball last season against strong teams. After starting the season there, he went to pitch for the Sellersville team in the Twin County league, helping to win the pennant for the Sellersville team.

AND THE CAT CAME BACK

A cat belonging to Mrs. Wilson, of Chambersburg street, in some manner got to the cornice of the Colosseum Lutheran church several days ago and remained there until Tuesday afternoon when its cries were heard and answered. J. W. Garlach procured a long pole with an apple picking apparatus on the end. A bit of meat was affixed to the pole which was raised while a number of people watched the proceeding with much enthusiasm as though a human life were being rescued from some burning structure. The cat, tempted by the meat, jumped for the pole and fell into the fruit receptacle. The pole was lowered and, when about ten feet from the ground, the feline made a leap for liberty and dashed away while the crowd applauded.

INVITATIONS ISSUED

Invitations have been sent out for the wedding of Miss Ruth Augusta Clutz and Mr. Mark Kurtz Eckert which will take place at the home of Miss Clutz on Springs avenue, at noon Wednesday, October 23.

HOOVER BECOMES HIS OWN LAWYER

George B. Hoover, of Bendersville,
Addresses Cumberland County
Court in his Own Behalf. Light Sentence.

"You see, your honor, I have no education and I have no lawyer here, and I'd like to say a few words."

Thus spoke George B. Hoover, proprietor of the Bendersville hotel, convicted at the recent term of criminal court in Cumberland county, on a charge of pointing a revolver, etc., at the time he had a fight with four young men, Murtoff, Kline, Rinehart and Hewitt.

Hoover was present in Cumberland county Court Tuesday morning to receive his sentence, a motion by his attorney Herman Berg for a new trial having been overruled. Lawyer Berg has left Carlisle and Mr. Hoover didn't see fit to employ another. He said:

"For three weeks and three days I lay in bed. My eyesight is affected because of this fight, and also my spine. I am a native of Cumberland County. I admit having a revolver in my coat pocket, but I did not use it. Perhaps I would have been better off had I used it. Neither would I give it to Shaub who said he would use it. I ask the mercy of the court."

The Court said: "We sympathize with you and we will be lenient with you as possible, but here stands this conviction."

The Court then sentenced Hoover to pay a fine of $25, and costs, but no costs are to be paid to the four young men named. Further sentence was suspended.

Hoover said: "I'll pay the fine right away," and leaving the court room he said, "Thank you, Judge."

MRS. LOUIS F. KRICHTEN

Mrs. Louisa Krichten, wife of Louis F. Krichten, of McSherrystown, died about 1 o'clock Tuesday morning of a complication of diseases, aged 59 years and 8 days.

He had been ill for the past eleven weeks and some time ago was taken to St. Agnes' hospital, Baltimore, for treatment but she grew rapidly worse.

Mrs. Krichten was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Busbey, the mother still living in McSherrystown.

She is survived by her husband and four children, Mrs. Charles Lawrence, of McSherrystown, William, Leo, and Miss Sue, at home.

There are three sisters, Mrs. Edward McCann, Mrs. Harry Foist, and Mrs. Leo Smith, all of McSherrystown. Three brothers, John L. and W. L. Busbey, of McSherrystown, and Charles H. Busbey, of Philadelphia, and nine grandchildren, also survive.

GET MUCH GOOD FROM INSPECTION

County Physicians Conducting Physical Examination in the Schools
Find Many Minor Defects in the Pupils.

The medical inspection of the public school children of Adams County, of which mention was made in these columns some days ago, has been going along rapidly under the direction of a corps of county physicians who examine each individual child. The districts covered by the various physicians are as follows:

Straban, Highland, Freedom, Menallen, Berwick, Tyrone and Germany township school boards decided that they did not want the inspection. No fourth class school district need take the service, which is paid for by the state, unless they want it but the examinations are always held unless the directors take definite action against them.

The physicians in charge of the work in the county report very little illness and few serious defects among the children. The troubles are principally with the eyes and here immediate treatment will frequently set matters right and prevent future trouble. Where defective hearing has been found it is frequently discovered to be the result of removable wax and children who would have feared impending deafness may soon secure relief.

All the returns are made to the state and the parents then notified of the defects found in their children.

EXCITEMENT AT YORK FAIR

With an estimated attendance of 9,000, which is several thousand in excess of the first day's crowd last year, the fifty fifth annual exhibition of the York County Agricultural Society opened under most favorable conditions on Tuesday.

The entire program was carried out most successfully; the weather was delightful; all the attractions were in full bloom; the Midway was a scene of great activity and apparently everybody was satisfied.

Things were livelier than usual for the York fair. A driver dropped dead, an aeronaut gave an extra thrill by getting bumped on the race track when he landed; a case of hog cholera was discovered in the swine department and was promptly disposed of; a palmist was arrested and compelled to give up a $40 diamond ring which she said to have stolen at the Allentown fair, and games of luck and skill were in vogue on the Midway. Altogether it was something like old times, when to go to the county fair was an event in a year.

For the first time, probably there was no word of dissatisfaction with the fair Tuesday. Everybody agreed that it is the biggest fair ever held in York as they also agreed that it is better than any for years.

SOLD TO MINOR

William Thompson, arrested by Chief Shearer on the charge of selling liquor to a minor, was given a hearing before Squire Harnish on Tuesday evening and held for Court.

Thompson is alleged to have been given money by Harry Musser, aged 17, and Augustus Fleishman for the purpose of buying them whiskey. He did this, according to testimony at the hearing, and was later given another quarter for a similar purpose and for which he failed to bring back the whiskey.

FAUST

Goethe's old, yet ever new "Faust" is the attraction at Wizard Theatre, Thursday, October 10, and it is said to be one of the most elaborate productions that has been seen in this masterpiece for many years. HOUSEKEEPER'S VACATION AND WHAT FOLLOWED

When the hot spell in July came, John insisted that I go to the shore for two weeks. I demurred, not because I didn't want to go—I was so tired of my own table that I would have gone anywhere—but because I didn't like to leave John to Malissy's tender mercies, knowing Malissy as I did.

"I don't see how you could get along, John."

"Oh, Malissy will look after me," said John easily.

"No, she won't," I protested. "If she would, going away would be simple. I knew that Malissy needed supervision to make her of any earthly use."

"If I take a vacation, Malissy will take care of me; then who will get your meals and make up your bed and clean your tub?"

"I will," insisted John, stoutly. "If Malissy goes off. You run on to the shore, and forget Malissy for two weeks. She's getting on your nerves."

John persuaded me into thinking that it was my duty to go. It was a fact that I was completely flattened out by the heat. When I went to market, my brain refused to take in the relative merits of potatoes and beans, peeks and spinach. I shut my eyes, poked my finger at a vegetable, and took it. It saved planning.

Before I left I had a heart-to-heart talk with Malissy. I told her I was going away and I wanted her to take good care of Mr. Green in my absence. She was to see that his melons were ripe, that his coffee cooked fifteen minutes, that his toast was properly browned, that his mattress was turned every day, and pay heed to various other minute directions, such as a loving wife naturally thinks of in connection with her husband's comfort. Malissy listened respectfully and gave me glib assurances that she would look after Mr. Green, "same as if I wuz peekin' ovah his shoulder."

I pretended to believe her and we parted amicably, though I felt a sinking.

John put me on the train one sizzling afternoon. If my ticket hadn't been paid for, I should have turned back. I felt so guilty leaving John in such heat with only an irresponsible negro to look after him.

The shore was delightfully cool and the "inn" had an excellent table. For nine days I enjoyed the luxury of loafing. I got sun-burned and fat, and, on the tenth day, panicky. I could feel in John's letters something wrong, though they were pointedly cheerful. Without letting him into the secret, I packed my trunk and came home.

I let myself into a deserted apartment. The rooms had a peculiar, gray look. When I went over to my dressing table, I saw that the dust on it was thick enough to hide the color of the furniture. John's bed had the spread carefully drawn up over two very soiled and wrinkled sheets. Malissy was nowhere around. Judging from the condition of the apartment, she hadn't been anywhere around since I left.

I found myself without a maid, and in a dishearteningly dirty home. The kitchen was full of dirty dishes. I surmised that John had been getting his own breakfast and using clean dishes as long as the supply lasted. Congratulating myself upon the muscle and energy that ten days of tennis and loafing had equipped me with, I called in the janitor, and together we scrubbed and dusted and swept the apartment into a semblance of cleanliness. Ahead of me, however, still stretched several days of hard housecleaning and the task of breaking in a new maid.

When John came home at nine o'clock that night I was in bed, so dead tired I could only chirp a feeble welcome.

"Have a good time, honey?" "Lovely," I murmured. "You see, it pays to take a vacation."

I wondered.

Banking as a Grocer's Adjunct.
A grocer, who contemplated starting a branch store, spent a day in the store of the man whom he expected to buy out, investigating neighborhood conditions. In came a little girl for two pounds of sugar, a package of starch, some flour, salt, and coffee. Her purchases came to 87 cents.

"Mother will have a dollar tomorrow," she said, "and she will pay you then."

The grocer nodded. "And she wants the change now," the child added. "She needs money to buy bread."

Unhesitatingly he counted out 13 cents.

The visitor was amazed.

"Is that the way you do business down here?" he asked.

"Have to," said the neighborhood tradesman. "Can't get along any other way. You have to know the people you can safely extend credit to, but the judgment and the will to carry on a limited banking business without interest is the basis of every grocer's success in this part of town."

The grocer abandoned the new enterprise.

Character Told by Clothes.

Mr. Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, says in a newspaper article: "When I get an order for a statue of a dead man, I ask his people for a suit of his clothes—not a new suit, but an old one, the oldest suit that may be found. I can tell the man's character by six inches of the legs of his trousers." It is from the way the trousers bag at the knees that Mr. Borglum decides character. This seems to be trespassing on Mr. Sherlock Holmes' preserves.

CATCHES GAME FOR QUARTER

Bradley Kocher of Detroit Tigers is Called From Grandstand to Earn Muncificent Sum.

Had the manager of the Eastern team of the now defunct Atlantic league refused to give Jack Kocher, now second catcher of the Detroit team, the 25 cents that he paid to witness a game at Easton in 1909 the Tigers would probably be without one of the best young backstops in the game. That was the only condition on which he would catch for Easton when he was picked out of the stand after the only catcher that team had was crippled by a foul.

It is the merest bit of luck that gave Kocher his start in baseball. It happened this way. Kocher lived at White Haven, near Philadelphia, and a short distance from Easton. A big, husky farmer's boy drifted into Easton to visit his cousin, said boy being Kocher, on a day when the Eastern team was playing a double-header against Sunbury, another Atlantic league team.

The cousin suggested that they spend the afternoon at the ball game and Kocher, who was something of a catcher in White Haven, agreed to go along. In the seventh inning of the first game Catcher Barret was put out with a bunged finger and the game was about to be called off when the cousin tipped the manager off to the fact that Kocher could catch.

Kocher didn't want to catch a game that he had paid to see, and so informed the manager, making the proposition that he would catch if he received his quarter back. An agreement reached, he put on Barret's uniform and caught eleven innings of star baseball. The following day Lave Cross, the old Athletic and Washington third baseman, came to Easton with his Mount Carmel team. Kocher threw to all the bases with such speed and ease that Cross told Connie Mack and Kocher has had a job ever since.

but one hour and ten minutes were needed to enable Ragon to defeat the westerners. Ragon omits all unnecessary flourishes and keeps right at work all the time he is in the box, never taking a breathing spell, nor allowing his catcher any rest.

Triple Play Unassisted.
First Baseman William Rapps of the Portland Baseball club of the Pacific Coast league made a triple play unassisted in a recent game between Portland and Oakland. Oakland runners were on first and second bases. The batsman hit a low liner toward first and the base runners, thinking the ball could not be fielded, sprinted ahead. Rapps scooped up the ball with one hand before it touched the ground. He touched first base before the runner could get back and then raced to second in time to get the third man.

Good to Tesreau.
They had to strain a point to make a no-hit game for Jeff Tesreau at Philadelphia on September 6, but not because the Big Bear did not do his part. The disputed hit was a short fly hit by Paskert. Both Merkle and Wilson went after it and let it drop between them. It was first scored as a hit, but Merkle afterwards declared without batting an eye that he touched the ball and took an error, so that Tesreau's hit column might be a blank.

Arties in Mix-Up.
Artie Hoffman and Artie Butler did the Alphonse and Gaston act on a fly recently, and were roasted for being boneheads, but Manager Clarke came to their rescue with the explanation that it was due to both having the same names. Wagner shouted "Artie" for Butler and Carey shouted "Artie" for Hoffman. The result was that both Arties ran after the ball and stopped to avoid a collision.

Great Work by Richie.
Lou Richie of the Chicago Cubs has done great work in the box for the team this year. He is only a pick-up pitcher, but his splendid twirling has helped mightily in putting the Cubs in the pennant race.

Gaston Suspended.
Dave Gaston was suspended for the season in the South Atlantic league because he was drawing more than the salary limit of the league.

HER SPECIALTY.

Mrs. Sutton advertised for a woman to do general housework, and in answer a colored girl called, announcing that she had come for the position.

"Are you a good cook?" asked Mrs. Sutton.

"No, indeed, I don't cook," was the reply.

"Are you a good laundress?"

"I wouldn't do washin' and ironin'; it's too hard on the hands."

"Can you sweep?" asked Mrs. Sutton.

"No," was the positive answer. "I'm not strong enough."

"Well," said the lady of the house, quite exasperated, "may I ask what you can do?"

"I dusts," came the placid reply.—Everybody's Magazine.

His Memory.

"Do you remember," she asked when they met after the lapse of years, she having become a widow and he having remained a bachelor, "do you remember that evening, long ago, when you and I walked in the gloaming?"

"I remember the swamp we walked into, but I don't remember the gloaming," he replied.

Then a fond hope died in her breast and she turned away to make herself agreeable to others.

"What are those notches on your pistol handle?" inquired the girl who was spending the summer in the far west.

"Fair game," answered the cowboy. "But what are them notches on your parol handle?"

"Fair game," answered the girl. And then he changed his mind about proposing and strolled thoughtfully away.

HEAD DRESS A SYMBOL

MEANING IN ORNAMENT WORN BY THE RED MAN.

Significant to Friends and Enemies Was the Feathered Headgear So Proudly Worn by the Honored "Braves" of the Prairies.

Few ornaments worn by the Indians are purely decorative, as we are accustomed to believe. Almost every fantastic part of the "Brave's" garb, says the Boston Herald, was symbolic, and as such it was honored by the onlooker and esteemed by the proud possessor. Such was true especially of the feathered headgear known as the war bonnet. This ornament stood for the social relation, the interdependence, and was not directly connected with the supernatural, as were so many of the Indian's symbols.

With the Omahas, the materials required to make the bonnet were gathered by the man who wished to possess it, but its manufacture depended on the assistance of many persons. A sort of skull cap was made of dressed deer skin, with a flap hanging behind; a border of folded skin about the edge formed the foundation for the crown of golden eagle feathers, which were fastened so as to stand upright about the wearer's head. Each one of these feathers stood for a man; the tip of hair fastened to the feathers and painted red represented the man's scalplock. Before a feather could be fastened on the bonnet a man must count his honors which entitled him to wear the feather, and enabled him to prepare the feather for use in decorating the war bonnet.

When a warrior counted his honors, he held up the feather which was to represent them, saying: "In such a battle I did this," etc. At the conclusion of the recital the feather was handed to the man who was manufacturing the war bonnet, who then put the feather in its proper place. As many of these bonnets contained 50 or more feathers, and as each feather must have an honor counted upon it, and no honor could be counted twice, the manufacturer of a bonnet required several helpers and the task took considerable time—often several days. Strips of ermine, arranged to fall over the ears and cheeks, were fastened to the bonnet. The ermine represented alertness and skill in evading pursuit. A bird or some other symbolic object could be fastened on the crown of the skull cap. This object was generally some feature of the man's vision through which he believed he received supernatural aid in the time of need. Sometimes the flap was embroidered with porcupine work or painted with symbolic designs. Songs were sung during the making of the bonnet.

Before the advent of the horse among the Indian tribes the flap of the bonnet did not extend below the waist, thus avoiding interference while walking or the wearing of other ornaments; but after the horses became plentiful the flap was extended to a man's feet when standing; when the man was mounted it lay on the back of his horse. In former times a man could not deck his leggings or shirt with a fringe of hair except by the consent of the warriors. Honors had to be counted on the strands of hair as on the feathers used in making the war bonnet, therefore each lock or tuft of the fringe stood for a war honor, and no honor could be counted twice. It was this custom that made garments of this character so highly valued. The hair for the fringe was generally furnished by the man's female relatives. Each of the locks forming the fringe was usually sewed in a heading of skin, frequently ornamented with quill work. The reason for the passing of these ancient and honorable decorations is obvious, since Uncle Sam has so rigorously forbidden war.

Passing of the Parlor.

Another sign of the times is the passing of the parlor and the making of the best room in the house the living room. Time was when the parlor was like a new suit of clothes, only to be used on special occasions. It was usually furnished with uncomfortable chairs that were covered up during the week and used on Sunday.

Times have changed, however, and people are furnishing rooms, instead of parlors. Here we find the piano and big, comfortable chairs that are ready for business all the time. Some of the big houses have the drawing room, but in the average home, the living room has taken the place of the parlor. It is only another sign that people are realizing the necessity of having a house furnished in real, homelike fashion.

Great Idea.

John, aged 7, was very fond of running with his younger brother through the ash pile near home. Their mother remonstrated in vain about their shoes until she hit on the plan of making the boys clean them, John one day and little Arthur the next. This seemed a great joke until John had actually puffed over the task through the best part of an hour. He stuck it out, putting a shine on the four little shoes; then he went to his mother with serious face and said: "Mother, I've got the idea. I won't ever run through the ashes any more—except on Arthur's day to clean!"

Uncle Pennylvia Says.

I hate a man who goes around flashing a big wad of bills, and bragging that he didn't take a vacation.

NEW WAY TO REMOVE TIRES

Device Slides Around in Rim and Quickly Loosens Shoe—Punctures Lose Their Terrors.

For the speedy removal of automobile tires the device patented by a New York man should appeal. Instead of a motorist standing in the middle of a road on a hot day and laboriously pulling the tire off a wheel, insert the tool shown here and loosen the shoe in a twinkling. This tool consists of a long bar with a circular hook on one end to encircle the hub of the wheel. At about the middle of this bar is a plate that fits over the rim of the wheel and has a downward projection that reaches in between the wheel and tire and prises the latter loose as the whole implement is revolved around the hub. With this to simplify the removal of a tire, punctures will lose some of their terror to motorists.

INSECTS HAVE ACUTE SENSES

Possess Intelligence That, Though of a High Order, Is Not Easy for Us to Understand.

The mental processes of the horse and the dog are those of man in much lower degree, in the view of Prof. A. N. Harvey of Michigan, but the intelligence of insects must be of very different kind. The double nerve cord and ganglia differ both in structure and position from the brain and spinal cord of man. Insect eyes are immovable and compound, and perceive motion and color, but not form. Ants, bees, wasps and other insects have no hearing. Taste and smell cannot be identical with those senses in man, and feeling is a perception through touch-hairs instead of the skin. But insects have very acute senses that we do not possess. A cecropia moth can perceive a female a mile or more away, although a man could not detect it under the same conditions at a distance of more than six inches, and ants, bees and wasps seem to have other senses located, like this, in the antennae. Differing from man in general structure, with shorter lives and different living, the insects have intelligence that, though of a high order is not easy for us to understand.

COPIES OF WAX IMPRESSIONS

Done by Pouring Melted Beeswax on Article Wished to Reproduce and Then Removing.

Fine copies of wax impressions can be made in the following manner: Procure an ordinary tumbler and fill it with a strong solution of sulphate of copper, which is made by dissolving two cents' worth of blue vitriol in one-half pint of water, writes Edward M. Teasdale in the Popular Electricity. After this is done make a porous cell by rolling a piece of brown paper around a stick and fastening the edge with sealing wax; also, fix a bottom to the cell in the same way. Make a solution of one part of oil vitriol and 5 parts of water and pour this mixture into the porous cell. Wind the end of a copper wire around the end of a piece of zinc and place the zinc in the porous cell. Attach the other end of the wire to the wax impression.

The wax impression is made by pouring melted beeswax on the article you wish to reproduce and removing after the wax gets cold. The wax mold then should be coated with black lead and polished. This is done with a camel's hair brush. A fine copy can be made on the wax impression after the battery has been running about twelve hours.

NOTES From MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Keep a spray calendar.

Cut out the dead branches.

Chickens relish fresh lettuce.

Select your breed and stick to it.

If you plant pear trees in rich soil you invite blight.

It is worth while to scald the calf's feed pail every day.

A peach tree will stand a heavier heading back than an apple tree.

Do not allow the stock to run in the orchard during the winter months.

Scatter the manure as you haul it, don't put into little piles all over the land.

Keep the feed troughs clean. It is a wasteful practice to mix manure with grain.

Letting the calf suck the cow the first day or two lessens the danger of milk fever.

If sows are expected to produce a fall litter, the spring litter should be weaned when about 10 weeks old.

Five or six of the twelve or thirteen species of beetles attacking stored grains are found usually in farmers' bins.

If you are still so far behind the age as to be dairying with no separator, get one now, if you sell a cow to do it.

An occasional colt or young horse to sell, even when one is not making a business of raising horses, is a help to any farmer.

The litter carrier will do much to keep the barn clean, because it encourages the boys and men to do their work better.

The training of a colt cannot be too thorough. A half-broken horse is not broken at all, and is always a dangerous animal.

Calves should have plenty of water as early as they want to drink it, but it is best not to let them have it right after their milk feed.

Where from four to eight cows are milked the churn should hold from six to ten gallons. Better a little large than too small.

Current bushes must also be watched carefully, and be thoroughly sprayed at least twice or you will find more green worms on your bushes than fruit.

A vessel which would hold 1,000 pounds of water would hold 1,032 pounds of whole milk, 1,038 pounds of skim milk, or 1,000 pounds of good cream.

When you see the little ghost-like winged creatures rising like tiny clouds from your rose bushes, be sure it is the aphid. Get after them with the spray.

Young climbing roses ought to be cut back to a strong eye, and the side shoots pruned as grapevines are pruned—that is, a couple of eyes from the stem.

When cream foams in the churn and butter will not come, put in a handful or two of salt and a little water, slightly warmed. This usually remedies the trouble.

Get some variety in the poultry ration. If the chickens are not eating heartily they may need a little change in their food to put their appetites back in tone.

Not a few of our dairy folks are going to raise a crop of cowpeas as hay feed for cows this year. Cowpeas hay is next to alfalfa and clover in milk-making qualities.

Eggs to be preserved should be perfectly fresh and be placed in the solution the same day as laid to obtain the best results, although eggs several days old will keep very well. Washed eggs should not be used.

With gravel and sand to be had on most farms, the purchase of some Portland cement will provide the entire material for a root cellar, a drinking trough, a milk house and many other convenient buildings which will last for many years.

Where there is hardly enough milk from a single milking to make separating worth while it may be set away until next milking time, when the cream should be thoroughly stirred in and the milk warmed up before running through the machine.

The Chronicles of Addington Peace

By B. FLETCHER ROBINSON

Co-Author with A. Conan Doyle of 'The Hound of the Baskervilles,' etc.

THE MYSTERY OF THE CAUSEWAY

"Yes," said Peace, "I believe it to have been for Airlie Hall that he tried to kill Fenton. Heaven knows what dismal scandal the man held over him; but it was probably sufficient to drive Sir Andrew from England for ever. From inquiries that we have made, it appears that Fenton had been living on Sir Andrew for over two years. It was undoubtedly a bad case of blackmail. The young man, on hearing of his uncle's death, gave his persecutor the slip, and crossed to London. Fenton followed, and discovered him at his hotel. Probably he demanded a large sum, which was refused him. Whereupon he declared that the baronet should never so much as see Airlie Hall unless he paid, and left the young man with that threat upon him.

"For days Sir Andrew stayed sulking in his rooms. He was a man of violent temper and unscrupulous past. Heaven knows what schemes of revenge he hatched in his rage and despair. Finally, on Monday last, he risked discovery, disguised himself in the beard and went down to see the old place again. His meeting with the keeper was a chance, and their talk of spring guns an equal accident. But the suggestion gave the baronet an idea. 'A spring gun for a fox'—you remember his words as Warner told us. He laughed with hysterical joy at a means that would rid him of his enemy so simply and certainly. He made the excuse of the Indian friend, and saw Fenton again on Tuesday, giving him an appointment on the island at eleven o'clock on the following Thursday night, and at the same time promising to pay him what he asked at the meeting. By the last post on Wednesday he sent the plans to Warner in disguised handwriting and under a false name and address.

"Fenton suspected this sudden acquiescence. The scamp knew to what a state of impotent fury he had brought his victim. He took a revolver with him, and having spied out the ground, crossed by the punt, instead of approaching the rendezvous by the causeway. Also he came an hour and more before he was expected.

"Perhaps you now understand the plan. Sir Andrew intended to alter the gun and leave for the station before ten. Fenton would be killed at eleven, and the blame rest on Warner. No one could suspect the young baronet who would be in the train at the time of the accident.

"Sir Andrew found the trap, lifted the gun off the supporting props, and drove the outer one a foot deeper into the ground. I could see the marks of his feet, where he had stood while he pushed and twisted the stick through the clay. He replaced the gun, which would now be at an angle to hit a man in the chest or neck. He stepped back, looking to see if there was a sign of lurking death to alarm a passer-by.

"What happened I can only guess. He may have slipped on the old slabs. But it was enough that he touched the thread, and the trigger, oiled and eased by Warner, jarred off at once. It was in a manner suicide."

"So that is the explanation," I said, when he had ended.

"It is partly guess-work, of course," Peace told me; "but I think you will find that I am not far wrong when Fenton's trial comes on and, to save his neck, he makes a clean breast of his share in the business."

For several years we have bought farm butter from the same farmer at 2 cents above retail market price every month in the year and glad to get it.

Milk fever is often caused by milking out the cow clean too soon after calving. An authority recommends letting the calf do the milking for the first 24 or 36 hours.

One valuable lesson the manure spreader has taught is the use of small quantities applied frequently. It makes possible what can be, but is seldom done—light application.

CRIPPLED SISTER SEES TWO BROTHERS SLAIN

One Was Shot and One Stabbed to Death.

North Vernon, Ind., Oct. 9.—Charles McQuaid, aged seventy-one years, and John McQuaid, aged sixty-eight, two brothers, living together five miles southwest of this city, were called to the door and murdered by two young men.

Charles McQuaid answered a knock at the back door, and a man in the darkness told him his name was Kin der and that his wagon had broken down in the highway and he wished help.

The man in the yard told McQuaid he wished a light, and Charles got a lantern. As soon as McQuaid stepped out one of the men struck the lamp and then grabbed him.

Charles called to his brother John, and when John appeared at the door he was shot through the heart. Charles was a powerful man and put up a desperate fight. He was stabbed and then shot in the hip, dying two hours later.

The men lived with a crippled sister, and when she heard the struggle she crawled from her bed to a chair, and by pushing it was able to reach the front door, where she called for help.

A neighbor heard her and responded, and the murderers, hearing the neighbors coming, fled, leaving no evidence by which they could be identified. The motive for the crime is not known, but is supposed to have been robbery.

FOUR TO ONE ON WILSON

Odds Lengthen in New York and Taft a Favorite Over Roosevelt.

New York, Oct. 9.—On the broad street curb, for the first time since the presidential campaign opened, bets were registered which practically allowed no doubt in the minds of the bettors as to the election of Woodrow Wilson to the White House in November.

Odds, which had for a number of weeks varied from 2 to 1 on the Democratic candidate to 3 to 1, were definitely set at 4 to 1, and the offer of a well-known betting commissioner to wager $4000 against $1000 on the chances of a Democratic victory was soon snapped up.

Against both Taft and Roosevelt the odds still stood, without bets being made, at last week's level, with Taft slightly the favorite over Roosevelt.

COST $290,000 TO NOMINATE TAFT

The President's Brothers Gave $150,000.

$30,000 FOR T. R. IN SOUTH

Ormsby McHarg Tells of His Expenses For Colonel Prior to Republican Convention.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Congressman William B. McKinley, who was the pre-convention manager for President Taft in the contest for this year's presidential nomination, presented to the senate sub-committee investigating campaign funds accounts showing he had spent about $290,000 for the president's candidacy.

He said $150,000 was subscribed by Henry W. Taft and Charles P. Taft, the president's brothers, and that John Hays Hammond, E. T. Stotesbury and Andrew Carnegie gave $25,000 each.

Ormsby McHarg, contest manager for the Roosevelt forces at the Republican national convention, told the committee he spent between $25,000 and $30,000 in pre-convention work for Colonel Roosevelt's candidacy through the southern states.

Another chapter was added to the disputed tale of the so-called "Harriman fund" of $240,000 contributed in 1904 when Roosevelt was the nominee for president, to the Republican campaign fund, when Wayne MacVeagh of Philadelphia, former attorney general, told the probers of a telephone conversation H. McK. Twombly had with the late E. H. Harriman in 1904.

MacVeagh said that while he was in Twombly's office in October, 1904 the latter had a telephone talk, and told him that it was with Harriman that Harriman had said he had been to the White House; that Roosevelt had expressed anxiety that a $240,000 fund be raised and that Harriman had agreed to it.

Charles A. Peabody, president of the Mutual Life Insurance company, MacVeagh said, was in Harriman's office while Harriman was talking with Mr. Twombly.

This was MacVeagh's version of a narrative related by Charles Edward Russell, Socialist nominee for governor of New York, and Judson C. Welliver, a newspaper man, to the effect that J. P. Morgan had received a telephone call from the White House, demanding campaign funds.

MacVeagh admitted that he told Welliver about the Harriman-Twombly conversation, but knew of none in which Morgan was concerned. He testified that he had been given to understand that in making the contribution in 1904 Twombly represented the Vanderbilt railroads, Henry C. Frick the coal and steel interests and John D. Archbold and the late H. H. Rogers the Standard Oil interests.

Former Senator Depew, of New York, who followed Mr. MacVeagh on the stand, also threw some interesting light on the "Harriman fund," saying that he gave $17,000 to it at the request of Twombly. He gave $10,000 to the Roosevelt fund earlier. He put a new angle to the probe by telling of a large fund, $50,000 to $100,000, raised by the then Senator Thomas C. Platt, which he said Platt reluctantly turned over to the state committee.

TAFT AT ANCESTOR'S GRAVE

Visits Family Burying Ground and Birthplace of Father.

Manchester, Vt., Oct. 9.—President and Mrs. Taft and Miss Mabel Boardman, on their motor tour of New England, continued north to Montpelier where the president will address the Vermont legislature.

In West Townsend the president visited the birthplace of his father, Alphonso Taft, and shook hands with several men who knew his father in their school days. He also motored to the top of a hill nearby to visit the grave of his great-grandfather.

The Taft party spent the night in the summer home of Robert T. Lincoln, son of Abraham Lincoln.

POWDER EXPLOSION KILLS 50

Three Hundred Others Injured at Tampico, Mexico.

Tampico, Mex., Oct. 9.—Fifty persons were killed as the result of the explosion of 500 kegs of powder here. A ware house in which the powder was stored and several buildings adjacent were burned.

The charred bodies of twenty-two of the victims already have been recovered from the ruins.

Three hundred persons are suffering from injuries and twenty of these probably will die. Many of the killed and injured were spectators lured by the burning building. Suddenly as they pressed closely there was a terrible detonation, which sent flying embers for many yards through the air.

The explosion occurred during a fire which had evidently been set by an incendiary. Persons of revolutionary sympathies are suspected.

Jesse Darlington Falls Dead.

West Chester, Pa., Oct. 9.—Jesse Darlington, seventy-one years old, of this place, fell dead while watching some men at work on his farm near Darlington station, Delaware county. He was president of the Charter National bank of Media, Pa., and one of the most prominent farmers in Pennsylvania.

WAR DECLARED AGAINST TURKEY

Montenegrin Charge Asks For Passport.

FIGHTING ON THE FRONTIER

Big Battle Said to Be in Progress Between Montenegrins and Turks. Constantinople Under Martial Law.

Constantinople, Oct. 9.—The Montenegrin charge d'affaires asked for his passports from the Turkish government.

It is understood that the charge addressed a note to the Porte, pointing out that the frontier incidents are not such as can be arranged amicably.

Heavy fighting is said to be already in progress between Montenegrins and the Turkish troops along the frontier. A brigade of nine battalions of Turkish infantry, proceeding from Scutari to Tusi, on the Montenegrin frontier, was attacked by a large force of Missoirli tribesmen just before reaching Tusi. The battle continued throughout the night and fighting is still proceeding.

Martial law has been proclaimed in Constantinople and suburbs, while the publication of news concerning the mobilization of the army and military movements, as well as attacks on the government, are prohibited. A ban also has been placed on demonstrations and the carrying of arms.

The impression prevails that Montenegro in declaring war acted at the behest of the League of Balkan Nations, with the object of blocking the proposed intervention of the powers.

Paris Expects General War.

Paris, Oct. 9.—A general conflagration in the Balkans is expected by the officials in this city within forty-eight hours.

Montenegro's declaration of war against Turkey is regarded merely as the beginning. It is believed that the other units in the Balkan coalition will follow suit as soon as the mobilization of their armies is complete.

There is only a faint hope now that the representations of the powers will avert general hostilities.

Montenegro's move is considered in Paris to be part of a prearranged plan. It is asserted that Greece was first selected by the Balkan confederation to force the issue and inaugurate the war. Greece, however, declined to accept responsibility for starting the flame of battle.

Montenegro was then selected. She had a long standing quarrel with Turkey over the boundary question, and Turkey's refusal to grant satisfaction was seized upon as justification for Montenegro's resort to arms.

A letter just received in Paris by a brother of a Bulgarian captain now at the front, said:

"Without doubt it will be another terrible Mulden. But if 100,000 of us fall at Adrianople, 300,000 will remain to march on Constantinople."

An explanation of the Balkan union is given by an official who understands the situation thoroughly. An alliance, properly speaking, does not exist. For instance, Montenegro is not allied with Serbia. But Bulgaria, after signing a treaty with Serbia, concluded a second treaty with Montenegro and a third with Greece. Bulgaria, therefore, stands as the link binding together the Balkan states, and it is Bulgaria that plays the leading role.

An Easy and Very Successful Treatment.

Try this Remedy at Our Risk.

You know what ringworm looks like—starting as a little circular patch of tiny pimples, which dry up into scales and are followed by another crop on the outer edge, thus enlarging the ring all the time.

It may be caught from other children, and from dogs and cats. Tincture of iodine is the old remedy, but we have a better one now—Saxo Salve, our new skin remedy.

Apply Saxo Salve a few times (as directed by the book in the box) and the ringworm vanishes. Saxo Salve so saturates the skin with its powerful, yet soothing ingredients, that the ringworm parasites are destroyed.

Of course, Saxo Salve has many other uses. All kinds of skin eruptions and disorders, eczema, barber's itch and tetter yield to Saxo Salve. It is a wonderful remedy and we guarantee it most positively. People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa.
